

2. Curriculum

2.1 Information Common to all Curricula

2.1.1 What is a Curriculum and How does it Apply

A "curriculum" is a set of requirements for graduation and courses which may be taken. A student's curriculum is determined by the year of their enrollment, and with the exception of a change in enrollment status, it will not normally change during a student's time at APU.

Curriculum and Year of Enrollment

Curriculum Applied	Year Enrolled	Semester in Spring 2014	Semester in Fall 2014
AY 2011 Curriculum	2011 Spring or later	Semester 1-7	Semester 1-8
AY 2006 Curriculum	2006 Spring - 2010 Fall	Semester 8-16	Semester 9-16

Changes in Curriculum

While a student's curriculum will normally remain the same through graduation, in the case of status changes such as readmission or reinstatement, a curriculum change may occur. A returning student is placed on the same curriculum as that of other students of the same semester number.

Curriculum Applied to Readmitted and Reinstated Students

AY 2011 Curriculum is applied for Semesters 5 through 8.

AY 2006 Curriculum is applied for Semesters 9 through 11.

Returning in fall of 2014 as a 8th semester student	AY 2011 Curriculum (changed)

Special Measures for Students with Changed Curriculum

In the event a student's curriculum changes, all requirements, including the credit requirements for graduation, will be based on the new curriculum. This may result in a change of the courses and number of credits required for graduation. The following exceptions will be made for these students. For more details, please refer to the "Special Measure for Students Changing Culliculum (PDF)" in "Change in Curriculum" page under the "Curriculum" menu on Academic Office website.

Curriculum Change	Description
Change from AY 2004 or 2006 to AY 2011 Curriculum	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Credit registration limits will remain unchanged. • Students will not have F evaluations counted in their cumulative GPA. In addition, F grades will not appear on a student's official transcript. • Students enrolled in the College of International Management will not be required to register for Common Liberal Arts or Major Education Subjects which would be automatically registered for AY 2011 Curriculum students. • Regarding the special measure for Japanese-basis students to take Common Education subjects and Major Education subjects in English, they will receive permission to take 300-level or higher offerings instructed in English if they can submit either a TOEFL® score of 500 or higher or complete "Intermediate English A and B." Additionally, as with AY 2006 Curriculum students, there are no requirements to take 100- or 200- level course offerings in English. • English-basis students with a reduced Japanese credit requirement of 12 credits can follow the same credit structure as the AY 2011 curriculum.

2.1.2 Graduation Requirements

Graduation requirements and the subjects that students can take differ depending on the student's curriculum, enrollment basis language and status as either a domestic or international student. These requirements are set at the time of admission and will remain the same until graduation. Please note that changes in student status may result in a change in curriculum, but they will not affect graduation requirements.

Graduation requirements are listed in the sections for each curriculum. Please make sure you read these carefully.

2.1.3 Systematic Study

Coursework at APU is arranged systematically, starting from introductory subjects and moving in increments of difficulty and complexity toward advanced courses. Students are encouraged to use the grade level, subject field, any listed prerequisite subjects and registration criteria as a reference in choosing classes in a systematic manner. With the exception of courses with specific registration procedures, such as seminars, students are able to take any course at or below their grade level. However, the University recommends completing introductory and foundation subjects in a planned manner before attempting higher-level study.

Grade Level

Each course corresponds to a particular level of study, indicated by a grade level code. The levels are as follows. The criteria for registering courses held in a student's non-basis language will vary by curriculum. Please confirm the details for the curriculum which applies to you.

Grade Level	Description
100 level	Primarily for 1st year students
200 level	Primarily for 2nd year students
300 level	Primarily for 3rd year students
400 level	Primarily for 4th year students

Prerequisite Subjects

In order to encourage the systematic study of material, some subjects specify "prerequisite subjects," which students are encouraged to complete before taking that subject. Classes with prerequisites specified are held under the assumption that students have completed all recommended subjects. Please read the syllabus and confirm the contents of the course before registering. Subjects for which all prerequisites have been completed by the previous semester will become available for registration regardless of the subject's grade level.

Please note that certain subjects require mandatory completion of credit for its prerequisites before it may be registered. These can be found within the course list.

Automatically Registered Subjects

"Business Mathematics" and "Introduction to Management" are subjects which form the basis for study in APM. These subjects are automatically registered by the University for all APM students during their first year.

Subject	Description	Registration Semester	Registration
Introduction to Management	The aim of this subject is to give students a general understanding of contemporary corporations and how they are managed. In particular, students will 1) understand the big picture of management culture and 2) gain the fundamental business knowledge needed for their other major subjects. This class is the basis of all other studies within APM.	1st Semester	Automatic
Business Mathematics	In Social Science, it is necessary to analyze various organizations and structures of society using the scientific method. The primary objective of this subject is to attain a solid knowledge of mathematics which are most used in business.	2nd Semester	Automatic

● Starting Mathematics Level

Students will begin from one of the following levels according to the results of the mathematics placement test at the time of enrollment. The Academic Office will inform students which level they have qualified for during their first semester, before Course Registration Period B begins.

1. Registration for "Fundamental Mathematics" is strongly recommended during the 1st semester, and the University will automatically register students for "Business Mathematics" during their 2nd semester. While the completion of "Fundamental Mathematics" is not mandatory, there is a need for these students to improve their mathematic ability.
2. The University will automatically register students for "Business Mathematics" during their 2nd semester.
3. Registration for "Business Mathematics" is unnecessary. Regardless of whether or not students wish to be exempted, they cannot register for "Business Mathematics."

Core Subjects

Students are strongly encouraged to complete the following 5 "Core Subjects." These form the foundation for later major subject studies, and students should aim to complete them by the end of their 2nd year.

Subject Name	Description
Accounting I	Accounting is often called the "language of business" and it is as important as learning English in today's business world. By taking Accounting I and II, students will gain the fundamental accounting skills and knowledge needed in the real world.
Accounting II
Finance	This subject aims to give students a solid grounding in financial systems, namely the theories and models of banks' roles as financial brokers, as well as the basics of corporate finance.
Principles of Marketing	Marketing allows for the flow of goods and services by considering customer needs, creating new value for customers and improving customer satisfaction. This subject aims to give students an overview of this sector along with an understanding of the fundamental theories and strategies of marketing.
Organizational Behavior	This subject seeks to deepen understanding of personnel movement and behavior within organizations. It also examines the efficiency and effectiveness of organizations' management activities from both micro (individual and team-level) and macro (organizational structure, functions and culture) levels.

2.2.3 AY 2011 Curriculum Language Education Subjects

Language Study

Students are required to take subjects in their non-basis language (Japanese-basis students: English, English-basis students: Japanese). The required number of credits depends on a student's curriculum. Please refer to the section appropriate for your curriculum.

The different language subjects offered at APU vary in degrees of difficulty. Prerequisite knowledge (level at entry) and course objectives (level at exit) are established for every course. The level of the non-basis language course that students start at will be determined by the placement test taken at the time of enrollment.

English Subjects

For Japanese-basis students, the appropriate curriculum and starting level of English language courses will be based on the results of the placement test taken at the time of enrollment. The curriculum types include the English Standard Track (24 credits) and the English Advanced Track (12 credits). Note that once curriculum types are set, no changes can be made.

Course Registration

- English courses (required subjects) are divided into A (4 credit) and B (2 credit) subjects, each graded according to its own evaluation criteria. Listening, speaking and writing are taught in the A class and reading and vocabulary are taught in the B class. Only once credit for both subjects is completed can a student proceed to the next level.
- Until all required English courses for the language track are completed, the University will continue to automatically register for and assign students to classes. When retaking the same course a student will not necessarily be registered for the same instructor or class, and this registration may not be changed or cancelled.
- The grade evaluation of each English course (required subjects) will include the score from the TOEFL®/ITP test held at the end of each semester. For more details, refer to the syllabus of the respective subject.

English Standard Track

Subject Name (credits)		Placement Score (TOEFL®/ITP)	Required / Elective	Registration

- Students who wish to proceed to the English Advanced Track courses may do so by completing at least 2 of the "Language for Specific Purposes" elective subjects in the Standard Track. Study in the Advanced Track begins with Advanced English 1A and 1B.

English Advanced Track

"Language for Specific Purposes" in the Advanced Track is a group of subjects offered to students who have completed the English courses required for graduation and wish to develop their language ability further.

Registration of English Language Subjects by English-basis Students

English-basis students who wish to register English courses may take English courses at the "Advanced Track" level by submitting an application to do so the preceding semester. After receiving the application, English faculty members will screen and interview students to determine their starting level. Once a level is assigned, students may register for the English course themselves during Course Registration Period B. Registration becomes possible from a student's 2nd semester. Application instructions for the 2014 Fall semester will be made available on the Academic Office website in June 2014; applications for 2015 Spring semester, in December 2014.

TOEFL®/ITP and TOEIC®/IP Examinations

TOEFL®/ITP and TOEIC®/IP tests are held a number of times throughout the academic year. TOEFL® and TOEIC® are widely recognized tests that can be used to measure and monitor English language ability. Both tests allow an institution to evaluate students' overall language proficiency and progress. It is also an important part of studies for students to acquire comprehensive English skills necessary in this international era.

The results of the TOEFL®/ITP test held at the end of each semester will be reflected in the grade evaluation for the English course (required subjects). They are also necessary when applying for overseas study programs. The TOEFL®/ITP tests held at the end of each semester are mandatory for 1st and 2nd year Japanese-basis students. Test fees for these required tests will be covered by APU. Students are also able to take other TOEFL®/ITP and TOEIC®/IP tests which are not mandatory. These tests, however, require advance application (subject to fees).

● TOEFL®/ITP

TOEFL® stands for "Test of English as a Foreign Language." This test is designed to comprehensively measure the English levels of non-native English speakers that apply to study at universities and graduate schools in English-speaking countries (primarily North America). Most students wishing to apply to overseas study programs will be required to submit TOEFL® scores during application.

The TOEFL®/ITP (Institutional Testing Program) tests held on campus are designed for institutional use. Scores from these tests cannot be used in an official manner, however the question format and grading methods conform to TOEFL® tests.

● TOEIC®/IP

TOEIC® stands for "Test of English For International Communication." This internationally recognized test aims to measure English communication skills and is currently offered in over 60 countries in Europe, Asia and other regions.

The TOEIC®/IP (Institutional Program) tests held on campus are part of a special group program. Thus, scores from these tests cannot be used in an official manner. (Please note that these differ from the TOEIC® test.)

● Application Procedures

Information about examination dates and application procedures will be posted to Campus Terminal.

- Score sheets cannot be reissued under any circumstances. You must submit the original Score Sheet when making various applications. Please be careful not to lose your score sheet after receiving your score.
- The TOEFL®/ITP results will be included in the grade evaluation for the English courses (mandatory courses). The score of the TOEFL®/ITP held at the end of the semester will be automatically reflected in your grade evaluation.

Mandatory TOEFL®/ITP Tests for 1st Year and 2nd Year Japanese-basis Students

Japanese-basis students who enroll as 1st year students after AY 2011 are required to take a total of 4 TOEFL®/ITP tests within two years from the time of enrollment as designated by the University. The University will cover the expenses for these tests. Please be sure to complete these tests, as the results will be reflected in the grade evaluation of English courses (required subjects) and will be needed when applying for overseas programs. Please note that test dates differ according to student year and semester of enrollment. If a student does not take a test on the designated date for personal reasons, APU will consider that the student has relinquished the right to take the examination.

In cases other than the above, students may not apply for exemption.

- If the application for exemption is approved, you may register for a higher course. Note that in the case of exemption, the number of credits exempted will be added to the General Elective credit graduation requirement.
- Students must apply for exemption during the application period of the semester prior to the semester they return to APU. Application for exemption cannot be made in semesters following a student's return to APU. Please refer to p.32 for the application schedule. Core Subjects

The following 8 subjects are considered the core of APM, and students are strongly advised to enroll in them. These form the foundation for later major subject studies, and students should aim to complete them by the end of the 2nd year.

Subject Name	Description
Introduction to Economics	This course is designed to teach the basic concepts of the field to students who have never studied the subject before. The curriculum uses textbook examples to introduce perspectives on finance in an easy to understand manner.
Fundamentals of Business Management/ Introduction to Management*	The aim of this subject is to give students a general understanding of contemporary corporations and how they are managed. In particular, students will 1) understand the big picture of management culture and 2) gain the fundamental business knowledge needed for their other major subjects. This class is the basis of all other studies within APM.
Accounting I	Accounting is often called the "language of business" and it is as important as learning English in today's business world. By taking Accounting I & II, students will gain the fundamental accounting skills and knowledge needed in the real world.
Accounting II
Finance	This subject aims to give students a solid grounding in financial systems, namely the theories and models of banks' roles as financial brokers, as well as the basics of corporate finance.
Marketing / Principles of Marketing*	Marketing allows for the flow of goods and services by considering customers' needs, creating new value for customers and improving customer satisfaction. This subject aims to give students an overview of this sector along with an understanding of the fundamental theories and strategies of marketing.
Human Resources Management	Students will learn the basics of human resources management and consider various personal strategies used to respond to issues in the ever-changing world of business. Students will gain an awareness of the HRM systems used by corporations today as well as delve into the future perspectives of the industry.
Production Management	The bottom line of business is to provide society with the goods and services it deems necessary. Students will gain an overview of production systems while looking into the various issues encountered in the management of those systems.

- Subjects showing "*" are AY 2011 Curriculum subjects, available for registration from AY 2011.

2.3.3 Crossover Advanced Program (CAP)

The Crossover Advanced Program (CAP) refers to several original programs with curricula that cover applied disciplines and topics. CAP consists of interdisciplinary programs that integrate the core areas of APS and APM. The five available programs offer advanced content that will serve as a stepping stone from undergraduate to graduate studies and prepare students to become future leaders in their respective fields.

Note:

- CAP is a program intended primarily for B-course students (those approved for CAP at time of enrollment in APU). As this program targets AY 2006 curriculum students, and students begin in their 3rd semester, we are not currently accepting new applications.
- CAP students begin taking major subjects from their enrolled CAP program from the 3rd semester. Although program participants would normally continue studying within the same CAP through graduation, in instances where a student's education or research plan changes, the University will allow two opportunities to return to normal college student status in the 5th and 7th semesters. The screening for this status change is conducted during a student's 4th and 6th semesters respectively. Please note that CAP students may not change from one CAP program to another.

THP	Tourism and Hospitality Program	Cultural exchange and the promotion of regional industries through tourism are important themes in the development of the Asia Pacific region. In this program, students will explore all facets of tourism through the lenses of culture, society and community. They will study the theory and practice of hospitality management as they relate to the tourism, service, public welfare and medical industries.
HLS	Health, Environment and Life Sciences Program	The concept for this program is to learn how health and ecosystem problems relate to the issues in the environment, the basic essence of life. Students will take a multifaceted learning approach to the myriad issues in the fields of health, environment and life sciences. Students will search for solutions to problems that concern securing and sustaining natural and human ecosystems at the regional, national and global levels.
ISS	International Strategic Studies Program	While the Asia Pacific region has the potential to prosper, critical thinking and decision-making abilities are required to solve the complex issues it faces in the realms of ethnicity, religion, resources, energy and security. After students learn the fundamentals of international relations, they will explore issues that require strategic decision-making at the organizational, national and regional levels in pursuit of the ideal policy direction for global society.
ICT	Information and Communication Technology Program	In recent years, there is a growing need in the Asia Pacific for talented individuals knowledgeable in both social sciences and information technology. To respond to these needs, this program will provide students with a solid foundation in the study of societies, cultures, economics and business management. In addition, students will acquire the skills and knowledge of information and communications technology needed to work in a variety of ICT-related fields. *Offered only in English
LCS	Language and Culture Studies Program	The Asia Pacific is home to many people with diverse cultural and linguistic backgrounds. Drawing from both APS and APM subject matter, students in this program will gain a heightened awareness that language is a necessary element in intercultural understanding. Students will strive for advanced language proficiency required to handle various situations in a multicultural environment.

Degrees

Students enrolled in a CAP program who have completed at least 30 credits of designated CAP subjects are eligible to have the enrolled program name included on their degree. If a CAP student does not meet the 30 credit requirement to graduate with a CAP degree, they may still be eligible to graduate as a normal student from APS or APM without the CAP name on the degree.

Requirements for Graduation

In order to graduate, students must complete at least 124 credits and fulfill the requirements for the following subject fields. If a student is unable to complete 30 or more credits of major subjects from their enrolled CAP program, they will be evaluated for graduation as a regular APS or APM student. If graduation in this case is possible, the student will not receive the CAP program name on their degree.

CAP Studies

In their 1st year, CAP students will pursue the same course of study as APS and APM students. Starting in their 2nd year, CAP students will enroll in small-group seminar subjects ahead of their non-CAP counterparts.

The following seminar classes are offered. Students may only enroll in seminar courses during the semester level at which the course is offered. Students must apply in advance for 3rd and 4th year seminars. Please refer to p.117 for instructions.

Year	Subject Name (credits)		Registration
1	Spring enrolled students	Spring semester: "1st Year Student Workshop I" (2)*	Automatic Registration
		Fall semester: "1st Year Student Workshop II" (2)*
	Fall enrolled students	Fall Semester: "1st Year Student Workshop I & II" (2 each)*	Automatic Registration

- In the above table, course credit showing a "*" are APS or APM major subjects, which will not count towards CAP Major Subject credit.

4 Years of Study as a CAP Student

2nd Year Seminar Subjects

CAP Introductory Seminar is the 2nd year seminar subject for CAP students. It is intended to give students the foundation that they need for their major subjects in the 3rd and 4th years. Students are required to register for the CAP Introductory Seminar offered for their program. Faculty members in each CAP supervise the CAP Introductory Seminars. These classes strongly correlate with 3rd and 4th year seminar subjects.

Number of Classes	Semester-based, 1 class per week
Class Type	Lecture and workshop
Objective	Gain fundamental knowledge required for major subject education in enrolled CAP program

3rd Year Seminar Subjects

3rd year students must register for CAP Major Seminar I and CAP Major Seminar II, small-group seminars offered for their program. CAP Major Seminar I & II are both semester-length subjects. Students are encouraged to take these seminars in succession. Students may, however, take other CAP Major Seminar I & II courses with differing themes as long as they are also within their enrolled CAP program. See p.117 for the application period and instructions for 3rd year seminar.

Number of Classes	Semester-based, 1 class per week
Class Type	Refer to course syllabus
Sub-Seminar Registration	Students will normally enroll in one seminar subject per semester. However, students that wish to engage in in-depth studies outside of their field may be permitted to enroll in two seminar subjects in the same semester, provided they meet certain conditions. For sub-seminar registration, students may choose from courses offered by a different faculty member from the same CAP program, as well as APS or APM seminars.

Sub-Seminar credits completed by CAP students will be calculated in the following manner:

Sub-Seminar Case	Credit Field
A student registers for a sub-seminar course held by another faculty member in the same CAP program	CAP Major Education Subject
A student registers for a sub-seminar course from their enrolled college	Major Education Subject (for enrolled college)
A student registers for a sub-seminar course from a different college than the one in which they are enrolled	General Elective

4th Year Seminar Subjects

Building on accumulated knowledge and skills over the previous three years, CAP students write their undergraduate theses—the culmination of their 4 years of study—in 4th year seminars. In this subject, students research a topic of interest over the course of one year and write a thesis in the latter half of the 4th year.

Students take "CAP Research Seminar" (2 credits) in the 1st semester of their 4th year. Students who pass this subject then register for "Undergraduate Thesis (CAP)" (4 credits) in their final semester. Students who fail CAP Research Seminar cannot enroll in CAP "Undergraduate Thesis (CAP)." In other words, they cannot write a thesis for credit. See p.117 for the application period and instructions for 4th year seminar.

Study Facilities for CAP Major Subjects

CAP Lab

CAP students may use the Institute Academic Laboratory, or "CAP Lab," located on the 2nd floor of Building BII (Faculty Offices II). The CAP Lab is a shared study facility for all five Institutes. Students may use the lab for research meetings, group work, seminar presentation preparation, consultations with faculty or for self-study. The CAP Lab is normally open Monday through Friday from 9:30 to 17:30. The CAP Lab is equipped with the following facilities.

Cyber Space	Self-study Space	Meeting Space
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Computers • Scanner • Printer* • Copier* 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Meeting space • CAP-specific books • Periodicals • Stationery 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Whiteboard • CAP faculty consultation room

Note:

Equipment marked with an asterisk (*) requires a rechargeable card.

HLS Biochemistry Lab

The objective of this lab is to give HLS students practical experience with the knowledge they have gained in the following required foundation subjects: Bioscience, Environment and Chemistry, and Earth Science and Statistics. Students will learn the basics of lab etiquette as well as how to run experiments, handle lab results and write lab reports.

CAP ICT Laboratory (Electronic Engineering Experiment Lab & Physics Lab)

The ICT student laboratory is designed to enhance classroom instruction and enforce learning through hands-on, practical experimentation. The electronics lab is equipped with instruments which are particularly needed for courses along Computer Engineering and Communication Engineering tracks of the program. The physics laboratory on the other hand, is intended for foundation physics courses and environmental physics.

2.3.4 AY 2006 Curriculum Language Education Subjects

Language Study

Students are required to take subjects in their non-basis language (Japanese-basis students: English, English-basis students: Japanese). The required number of credits depends on a student's curriculum. Please refer to the section appropriate for your curriculum.

The different language subjects offered at APU vary in degrees of difficulty. Prerequisite knowledge (level at entry) and course objectives (level at exit) are established for every course. In order to complete language courses at APU, students must first either have completed or be exempt from taking that course's prerequisite subjects. The level of the non-basis language course that students start at will be determined by the placement test taken at the time of enrollment.

English Subjects

Although APU carried out a curriculum reform in AY 2011, students on the AY 2006 curriculum will continue to take English language subjects from the AY 2006 Curriculum. Please note that these students will have different course names and course registration procedures than those of students enrolling from the 2011 Spring Semester.

Subject Name (credits)	Classes per week	Prerequisite Level	Objective (for exemption)	Prerequisite Subject	2004 Curriculum Subject Name
Introduction to English (4)	4	Up to TOEFL® 400	TOEFL® 400	None	Introduction To English

Advanced English II (4)	4	TOEFL® 550-600	TOEFL® 600	Advanced English I	N/A

Important:

- Fundamental English I & II subjects and Intermediate English I & II subjects are meant to be taken together as a set.
- Introduction to English, Fundamental English I & II and Intermediate English I & II include in their grading and assessment TOEFL®/ITP scores of tests taken at APU in the semester the courses are registered.
- English-basis students will only be allowed to take Advanced English II.
- Credits obtained in excess of the required number of credits will be counted first as "Common Education Subjects," then as "General Electives" if applicable.

Registration of AY 2011 English language courses

Students who fulfill the following criteria are able to register for AY 2011 Curriculum English Advanced Track Electives if there are spaces available during the Course Registration Period B.

1. AY 2006 Curriculum Japanese basis students who have either gained credit or have been exempted from taking Advanced English I (4 credits)
2. AY 2006 Curriculum English basis students who are non-native speakers of English

TOEFL®/ITP & TOEIC®/IP Examinations

TOEFL®/ITP and TOEIC®/IP tests are held a number of times throughout the academic year. TOEFL® and TOEIC® are widely recognized tests that can be used to measure and monitor English language ability. Both tests allow an institution to evaluate students' overall language proficiency and progress. It is also an important part of studies for students to acquire comprehensive English skills necessary in this international era. Scores from these tests cannot be used in an official manner. (Please note that these differ from the TOEIC® test.)

AY 2014 TOEFL®/ITP and TOEIC®/IP APU Internal Test Schedule

Semester	TOEFL®/ITP	TOEIC®/IP
Spring	Wed. May 14, 2014	Wed. June 18, 2014

- Score sheets cannot be reissued under any circumstances. You must submit the original Score Sheet when making various applications (overseas programs, course exemptions, etc.). Please be careful not to lose your score sheet after receiving your score.
- The TOEFL®/ITP results will be included in the grade evaluation for the English courses (mandatory courses). The score of the TOEFL®/ITP held at the end of the semester will be automatically reflected in your grade evaluation.

- A student has not completed "Japanese Foundation Course II" by the end of the 1st semester
- A student has not completed "Japanese Intermediate Course" by the end of the 4th semester

Once a student's Japanese graduation requirements have been reduced to 12 credits, consecutive Japanese classes will be automatically registered by the University.
