

‘Changing your Status of Residence’ Guidance Session

In order to work in Japan after graduation, you must change your visa (also known as ‘status of residence’) from a ‘Student’ visa to a work visa in the category appropriate for the type of job you will be doing. For most students this will be a work visa under the category of ‘Engineer / Specialist in Humanities / International Services’ (技術・人文知識・国際業務). Please use the information here to assist you in changing your visa. First, you have to determine the category in which the company you will be working at belongs to.

Category 1	※ Companies which fall under any of the following (1) ~ (9) below. (1) Companies listed on the Japan's Stock Market (2) Mutual companies in the insurance business (3) National and local public bodies/agencies inside and outside Japan. (4) Independent administrative Institutions (5) Government-affiliated or authorized corporations (6) Public-interest corporations authorized by national and local Public bodies (7) Public corporations listed in the Appendix 1 of Corporation Law Act (8) Corporations generating innovation<sup>1</sup> (9) Small and Medium sized Enterprises fulfilling specific conditions (Youth Yell Certified Corporations<sup>2</sup>)

For September graduates starting work in October & March graduates starting work in April

The student must apply in person to the Oita Branch Office of the Fukuoka Regional Immigration Bureau. If you have officially changed your address and are now living outside of Oita prefecture (i.e. the address on your Residence Card is not listed as Oita prefecture) you must apply to the Immigration Bureau closest to where your new address is. You can apply anytime during the three months leading to your expected graduation. However, as the processing of an application normally takes between one to two months, you should submit your application well before your current visa expires.

*Once you graduate, you should take the Application Slip issued by the Immigration Bureau on the day of your application, then Notification Postcard sent to you from the Immigration Bureau, your Certificate of Graduation/ Completion, your passport, your Residence Card and a revenue stamp of 4,000 yens (purchasable at Immigration Bureau 2nd Floor or any local post offices) to the Immigration Bureau to pick up your work visa.

For September graduates starting work in April

Students who are graduating in September but not starting employment until April of the following year have to return to their home country (i.e. leave Japan) after graduation when their student visa expires. Someone from the company should go to the Regional Immigration Bureau (in the area closest to their office) on your behalf to apply for a 'Certificate of Eligibility' (COE). The company should then post this to you overseas. You will then need to take this 'Certificate of Eligibility' and your passport to the Japanese embassy or consulate in your home country (or other country that you will be living in). You may be required to submit other documents depending on the regulations set down by the Japanese embassy in the country where you will be.

Note: The 'Certificate of Eligibility' is only valid for 3 months. If you do not enter Japan within 3 months after receiving your 'Certificate of Eligibility', it will become invalid.

4. *When should I apply?

Most Immigration Bureaus will accept applications from up to three months prior to the date you are scheduled to join the company. Students who will start work in October (i.e. those who will graduate in September) can submit their application from July.

5. *My current visa will expire before I get my new visa...

Make sure you apply for your new visa before your current student visa is expired. It is okay if your current visa expires while your new visa is being processed.

6. Can I return to my home country while my new status of residence is being processed? YES – but you must return to Japan before your current visa expires. You are required to inform the Immigration Bureau about the period of time (from which date to which date) and your contact information while outside of Japan. You will be asked to show your Residence Card upon receipt of your new visa. Therefore, please make sure to take it to your home country and back to Japan.

7. *While my application is being processed I am going back to my home country to renew my passport...

When you go to the Immigration Bureau to get your new status of residence visa stamped into your passport, make sure you bring both your old and your new passports with you. If you are from a country where the old passport is not returned to you after the renewal application, make sure you get a letter certifying that fact and bring to the Immigration Bureau with a copy of your old passport to receive your new visa. *Make sure you inform the Immigration Bureau where you applied for a change of status about your address if you decide to move out during or after application.

[Attention]

1. We recommend that you discuss with your hiring company about your work duties/ responsibilities and the change of status of residence early on if you have received a job offer from a company who is new to hiring foreigners.
2. If you plan to return to your country, go on trips, or change your home address before your start date, please make sure that you inform your company and are reachable at all time. Do inform your employer if you ever be unreachable and let them know how and when they can contact you again. Every year, some students who are given job offers from companies suddenly abandon correspondences with their employers, and the Career Office receive many inquiries from such companies about these “missing students”. Please be careful as the company may decide to rescind your job offer.
